With much hard work and sincere effort, we the class of 1964 have compiled this year-book.

We have endeavored to show you the joys and sorrows, trials and tribulations of our senior year through the many memories we have gathered from our teachers, school-mates, sports, and activities.

This final year has indeed been one which we will never

A Tribute to Mr. Moore

When he walked, his stride was true,
His head held high. He taught us
Many of the pearls of learning
That, otherwise, would have gone unseen.
Not just from his words did we learn,
But through his noble deeds we realized
That life can be ours for
A price as small as an effort.
When knowledge was lacking
He gave us wisdom.
From him we learned far more
Than nouns, verbs, and vocabulary.
He taught us always to give of ourselves
When dealing with others.
We feel that our beloved Mr. Moore
Imparted greater knowledge than
That of grammar, literature, and composition.
He taught us the true meaning
Of life.

Janet Lee Berenson, '64

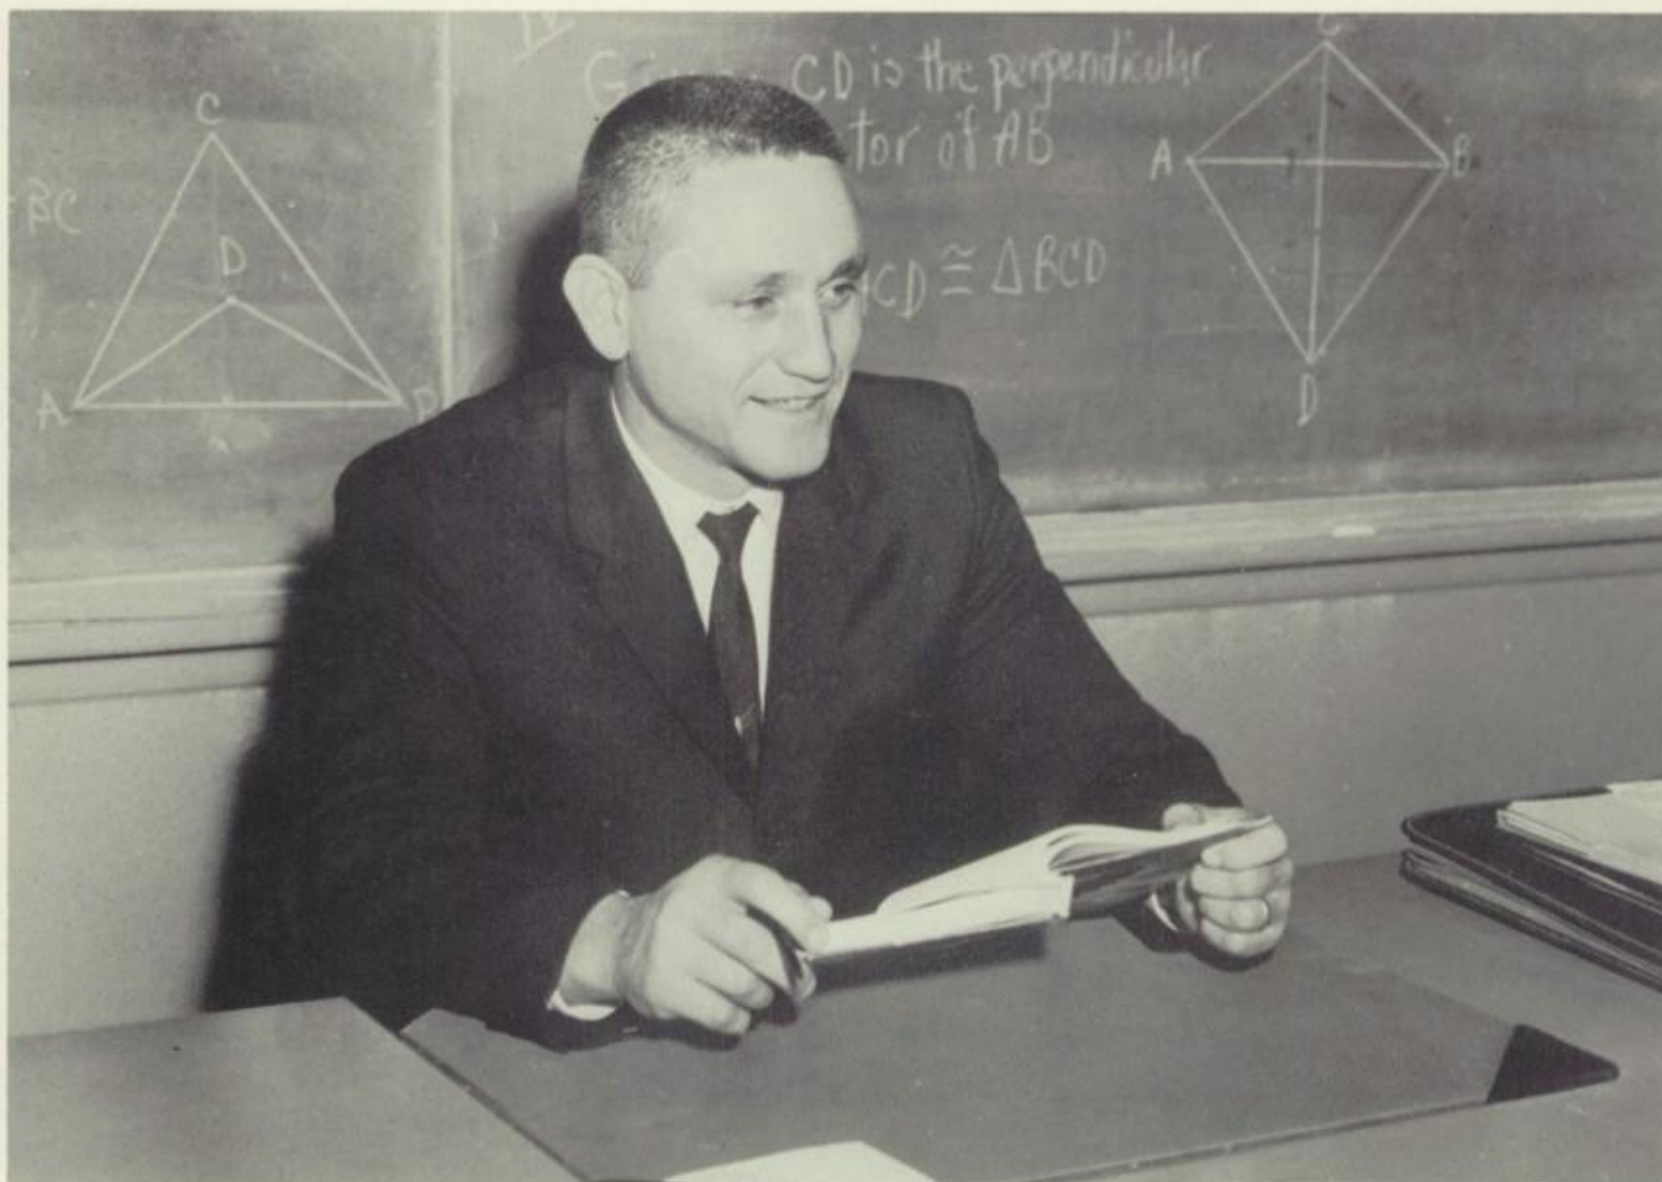

Mr. Austin B. Moore, for 5 years the chairman of the English Department of Sharon Hill High School died on November 2, 1963. Especially remembered for his unselfish devotion to the senior classes, Mr. Moore's absence was and will always be felt by those who knew and loved him.

WITH THANKS

In appreciation of his efforts to help us become better students and school members, as well as to improve us in mathematics, the Class of 1964 dedicates our yearbook to Mr. Edward J. Sigda.

Mr. Sigda came to Sharon Hill High School as a junior high math teacher in September, 1957, when our senior class entered the junior high. Three years later the class of '64 was promoted to tenth grade and Mr. Sigda moved right along with us to become the senior high math teacher and head of the Mathematics Department. He has been our class sponsor and homeroom teacher. As a result of these things, the members of the senior class feel very close to Mr. Sigda.

Mr. Sigda, who is a Chester High alumnus, graduated from Millersville State Teachers College where he majored in geography and minored in mathematics. He was awarded the Bassler Geographic Society Certificate of Merit for Scholarship, general activity, and teaching ability in the field of geography. In his senior year he was elected president of the Geography Club. He also enjoyed participating in intramural sports at Millersville.

Mr. Sigda did not stop furthering his education here. He received his Masters in Education at the University of Delaware in 1957. He took chemistry and physics courses at Pennsylvania Military College to become certified to teach general science in Pennsylvania. He attended the Modern Trends in Mathematics course at Pennsylvania State University Extension School. Under a National Science Foundation Grant, he returned to the University of Delaware for a summer and then to the University of New Hampshire for three summers in order to further his education in mathematics. He will receive a Master of Science for Teachers in Mathematics degree in June, 1964.

For four years before coming to Sharon Hill, Mr. Sigda taught at the Ridley Township Junior High School. He is completing his sixth year at Sharon Hill. He represented our school on the Suburban Study Council (Group B) when he taught junior high.

He was president of the Sharon Hill Education Association during the 1962-63 school year. He has been the Student Council advisor since he began teaching here.

Mr. Sigda is married and has five children: Anne 5, Catharine 3, Mike 2, Patty 1, and John 6 months. The Sigda family lives in Ridley Park. Mr. Sigda is originally from Chester, Pennsylvania.

Of the many sports Mr. Sigda enjoys, fishing takes precedence. He does quite a bit of fresh water fishing, including trout and bass. His prime interest is the striped bass. He was a catcher on the team that won the Delaware County Softball League Championship, and during his three summers at the University of New Hampshire he played both behind the plate and in the field. While at Ridley Township he coached the junior high basketball team. Mr. Sigda doesn't miss many televised basketball games and also watches football and baseball.

Mr. Sigda has spent a good deal of time and effort with our class. He has never failed to assist any student who came to him to seek help. As Student Council advisor he has consistently worked for the students' benefit. It is with gratitude that the Class of 1964 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. Edward J. Sigda.

OUR CAPABLE ADMINISTRATOR

An efficient and capable member of our administration, our supervising principal, Peter A. LeDonne, drops in on the elementary office personnel.

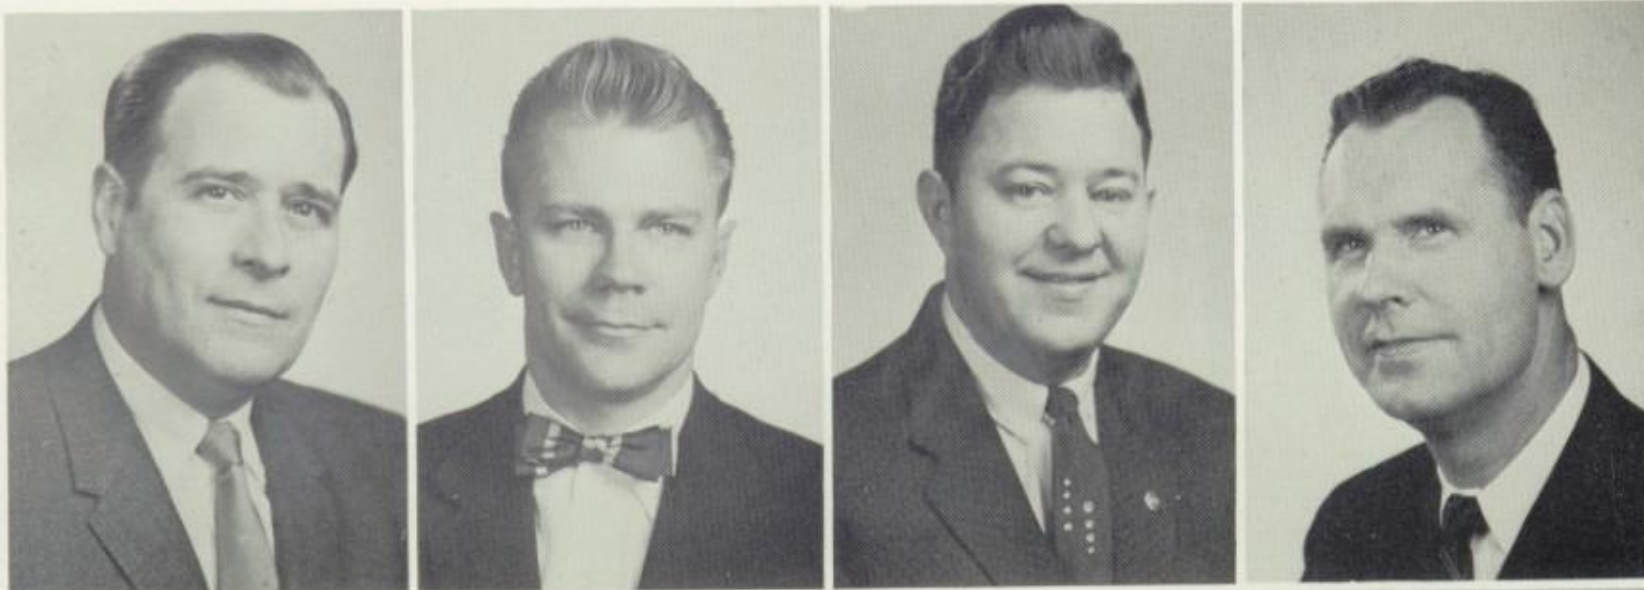

Dr. LeDonne and the seven members of the school board constitute the government of the Sharon Hill Public School. They are responsible for the school policy and budgeting the school's money.

The school board members serve a six year term and receive no compensation for the important job they do.

The school wishes to acknowledge the leadership the board has given to us, and to thank them for the many ways it has helped us to help ourselves.

Doctor LeDonne, our supervising principal, has been awarded his Doctorate in Education from Temple. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts from Waynesburg College and his Master of Education at Temple.

OUR LEADER

Mr. Scholl and Mrs. Rock have a good laugh as they think of the happiness that is sent with each green slip.

Mr. Robert L. Scholl received his Bachelor of Science degree at Millersville State College, and his Master's Degree at the University of Delaware.

After teaching in the biology department for several years, Mr. Scholl was promoted to high school principal. Since 1962, he has proven himself to be very capable of filling the post of principal.

He has always been a good friend to the students of Sharon Hill. He is an ardent fan of all Sharon Hill's sports teams. He enjoys taking part in all sorts of worthwhile extracurricular activities such as pep rallies and class trips.

The school takes pleasure in acknowledging Mr. Scholl for the many ways he has sent us on the road to success.

SENIORS IN '79

"Good afternoon, ladies and gents. This is your pilot, Ed Wells, welcoming you aboard the R. Kane Airlines, Flight 706 - nonstop from New York to Philadelphia. We are expected to arrive at our destination at 2:05 P.M. We will be cruising at an altitude of five thousand feet. Your lovely hostesses for today are Grace Taggart and Joanne Coryell. They will attempt to make your trip most enjoyable. If you will now fasten your seatbelts, we can be on our way."

These were the opening words of our pilot, and they became the first steps of our journey. Little did we know that this weekend of 1979 would bring us together with our old classmates of the '64 graduating class.

As the plane started to take off, we looked around at the other passengers. In scanning their faces we saw the internationally famous dancing team, Lucille Soloski and Walt Fletcher, returning from a command performance before the Queen of England. After chatting with them, we learned some of the latest gossip from England. That up-and-coming young protégée of the Beatles, Nancy Nicewinter, is due for a tour of the U.S. next month. Also, the Academy Award winning actress, Linda Morrison, has signed to make another picture in England.

We also recognized Margaret Dingwall, the U.S. ambassador to Panama, sitting in front of us. She had just given a speech at the U.N. and was on her way back to Panama. Across from Ambassador Dingwall was another pair of familiar faces, Rose Godfrey and Pat Lewis, who were returning from a spring shopping spree in New York.

Further up the row we spied the Honorable Richard Miller, just back from a visit to the new mayor of Dogpatch, U.S.A. Facing Mayor Miller was this year's Nobel Prize winner, the world-renowned doctor and author, Janet Berenson. The doctor was accompanied by her faithful medical secretary, Sue Weiderwax.

By this time we were landing at the Philadelphia International Airport, and we followed the suggestion of the stewardess to check in at the Hotel Maxwell, one link in the famous chain owned by Douglas Maxwell. Our Deitrich rent-a-car was ready for us, so we drove straight to the hotel.

We had just enough time to relax and read the paper before going to our rooms. The bellboy was happy to bring us a paper from the Brack-Trinkle Concession. We thought we recognized the writers style, so we turned to the staff page and found that Frank Sullivan, who always did like deadlines, held the position of daily editor. The bellboy, Dan Donboch, also told us that the Brack-Trinkle line was standard equipment in all Maxwell hotels, along with the Decino Beauty Salons and the Swanger Barber Shops.

The front page headliner concerned the first American girl astronaut to land on the moon, Kathi Robinson. There was a beautiful shot of her getting into her capsule, taken by international photographer, William Wilson. All medical reports revealed that Kathi was doing fine, but she was, nevertheless, attended by head nurse on the Space Program, Edith Novick.

The other big story of the day was a scoop by ace reporter, Harry Reed, concerning the prospective expansion program of A.T.&T., developed by the imaginative president of the company, Carol Boggs, with the advice of major stockholder and tycoon, Joseph Rowe. Also of interest was an item on the presentation of the Teacher of the Year Award to Faye Shalles at the Better American Education Convention, for her outstanding work in the field of education. Attending the banquet for Faye were some prominent figures in education: Ronald Murray, Dean of the French Department at West Chester College, Carl Rothman, authority on Mechanical Arts education, and Carol Mennig, president of Mennig College of Business Education.

Of course, we could not escape the human interest story--FIREMAN SAVES CHILD. After reading further, we discovered the fireman was city fire chief, Joe Read, and the "child" was none other than bandleader Bob Childs.

The sports page was covered with familiar names: Robert Quinn set a new world's record for a three minute mile, with John Coffey coming in a close second. Richard Cleary had just been elected to the Football Hall of Fame, while George Shicora was named pro basketball's most valuable player of the year. The National League pro football team recently acquired a new owner, that outstanding athlete and sports enthusiast, Bob Locke.

To catch up on the social events, we turned to the social page, where we learned that the daughter of self-made millionaire, James Laslett, will hold her coming-out party at the Hotel Maxwell next month. Attending this gala ball will be the internationally famous Jet Set. Due to the presence of William Selwood, John Taylor, James Natale, Thomas Schellinger, Andrea Costello, Donna Curdy, Conni Cini, and Carol Stubblefield, this should develop into the biggest social event of the year. Also on this page, we found that society woman, Isabel Maund, and her husband are leaving for a three month tour of Europe. There will be a horse show at Devon Fair next week. An exhibition of fine horse-handling will be given by that well-known equestrienne, Kathi Davis. The annual fashion show for the introduction of the K. Rock hand-loomed originals will take place at Peck & Peck, now owned by Jack Peck. Attendance this Monday is by invitation only.

A flip of a finger brought us to the advertisement page, and we were surprised to see yet another familiar name. Freas' Advertising Agency promised sure success to anyone using its ads. Buddy's claim must be good, for we decided to follow the advice of Jim Mullaney and "go tonight to Mullaney's by the Mill", an exclusive night club, set romantically in suburbia. After all, how could we miss the premiere of Bo and his Bunnies?! "Beat the bugs with Bob's Bug Spray" caught our eyes next. It was an ad of remarkable promise from Bob Stewart. We decided to call Bob if we were ever troubled by bugs.

We could not put the paper down until we read the advice to the lovelorn column. "Dear Marcia" provided us with some tips for solving any personal problems.

Just as we finished the last page of the paper, the lights went out. Remembering the motto of Johnny Ohm's Electric Company, "you can depend on us", we ran to the manager, Darlene Kemp, and suggested she call Mr. Elmendorf and ask him to send an electrician. He readily agreed to send Jean Kissane, whom he stated was his most able and dependable worker. The situation was soon under control. As the lights went on, we saw Bill Brower, the hotel accountant, walking arm-in-arm with Mr. Maxwell. Apparently, Bill's books balanced again, and the two were going out to celebrate the event.

The dinner hour was approaching, and a unanimous vote chose Mullaney's by the Mill as our evening entertainment. We retired to dress for dinner and were soon on our way in our rented car. It was a long ride, but the roads were covered with billboards to keep our interest. On the right, we saw Masino's Sleeping Pills, and on the left, Boutwell's Bond Bread. Further along the road, we were confronted by an immense, well-lit sign singing the praises of the new Night "Owl", a club recently transferred from Sharon Hill by owner, Toni Carr.

Suddenly, a red and blue neon sign announced our arrival at Mullaney's. Karen Fox, a friendly hat-check girl, took our wraps and directed us toward the lovely hostess, Lynn LaRoche, who led us to a center stage table. A table advertisement reminded us of the entertainment soon to follow. Bo Gregg and his guitar would set the scene for the four lovely bunnies: Sue Crowsers, Barbara Hughes, Nancy Dochterman, and LaVerne Smith.

After ordering our dinner, we sat back to wait. A sudden chorus of "Happy Birthday" reached our ears. It was none other than Carol Tuten, Pat Anderson, and Pat Smalyga, celebrating the birthday of their friend, Donna Brown, who had just opened at the Theater of Stupefying Dancing and Gyrating. At another table we saw Marilyn Bowen and her husband, out for an evening of fun. We greeted our friends and then settled down to a fine dinner. After eating every morsel, we congratulated the cook and left Mullaney's.

Sunday morning started off right. We attended a nearby church where the young protégé of Billy Graham, John Harvey, was speaking. When the sermon was over, we went up to see John and we met his faithful secretary, Lynda Stine.

On such a fine spring day, we felt compelled to walk back to the hotel. Soon we had an urge for an ice cream cone. Our wish came true a few blocks later as we approached Moore's Summer Custard Stand, one of a universal chain owned by ice cream tycoon Joan Moore.

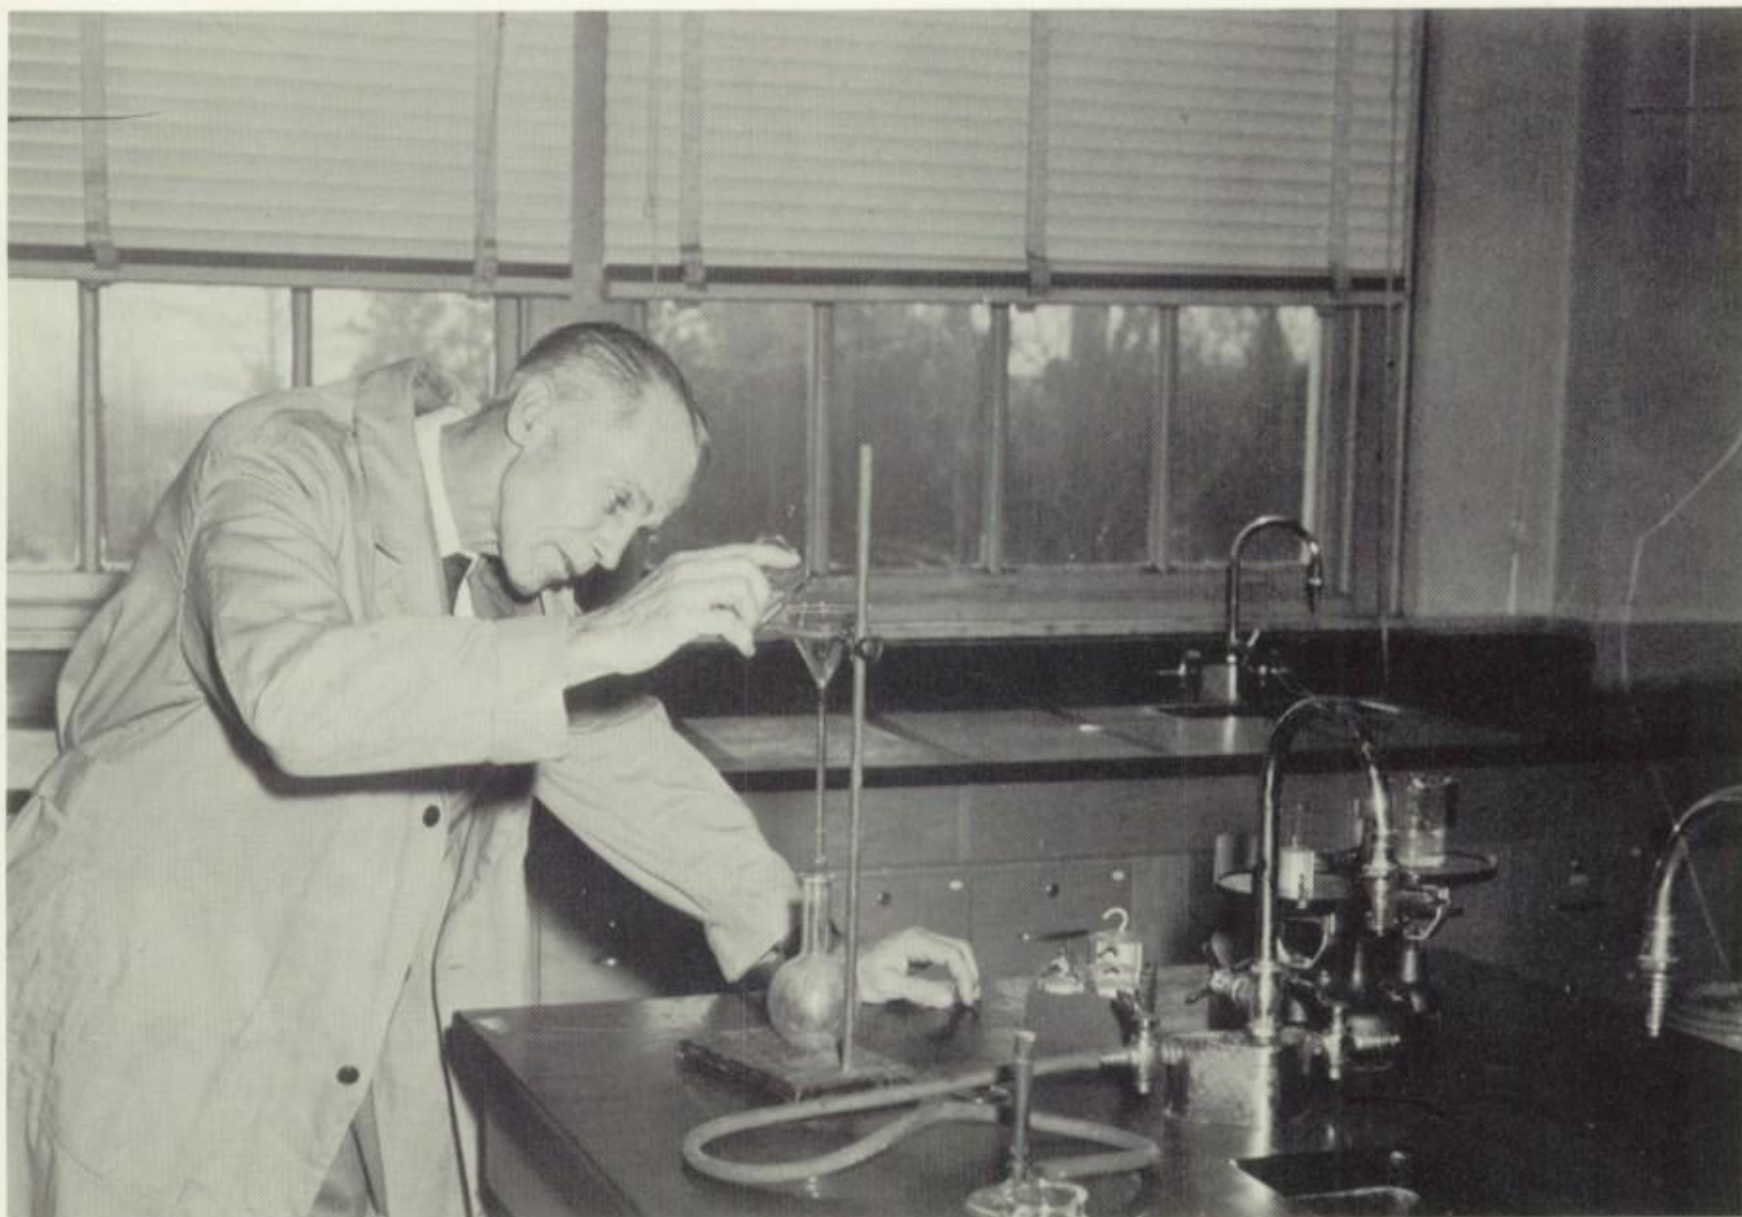

The hotel was bustling with activity because of the professional art exhibit in the lobby. The talented artists George Benson, Phil Impriano, and Joan Becker were holding their annual "Day with the Arts". We decided to get away from all the excitement by watching television in our room.

As usual, the picture on the screen was a commercial. At first, we thought we were seeing double, but then we realized that the two identical girls were Joann and Carolyn Vile, the Toni permanent twins. Next came the news. Kathy McLaughlin, the presidential advisor on economics, reported on the need to increase the federal budget to stamp out poverty. She also complimented her able assistant, Sandra Irving, whom she called the U.S.'s most dedicated socialworker. Then, Jim Jacobs' smiling face appeared on the screen to advertise the Jolly Green Giant Vegetables and Fruits.

The final news item was an excerpt from President Cartwright's press conference. The chief executive stressed the importance of physical fitness, and his advisor on the subject, John Parks, demonstrated some exercises to keep the public in good condition.

The news ended on this note, and we were amazed to see how time had flown. Our plane departure time was 5:00, and we had only one half hour to pack and say good-bye to our host, Mr. Maxwell. Reaching the plane, we thought about the wonderful weekend that we had just spent, and decided that this had been the best trip we had ever taken.

Mr. Christie proved himself equal to the difficult task of sponsoring the Senior Class.

COLORS: NAVY BLUE AND GOLD

The senior year is the busiest and most expensive year of a student's life. Class projects such as selling Christmas Cards and running the concession stand at football games help to defray the expenses. The class also collects dues.

The money is used for several activities. The yearbook gets a portion, and the remainder goes for Class Night, Graduation, Baccalaureate, and the Senior Prom.

There is no way to pass on experience from class to class. This is where class sponsors are needed. We feel that we have excellent sponsors. We wish to thank them for the help and guidance we have received from them.

*Best Wishes
Claire Hammer*

Mrs. Hammer again unselfishly gave her time for the advancement of our class.

It is not hard to understand why our class chose Lucille Soloski to reign as queen of our Junior Prom.

MARCH 2, 1963

Will we ever forget such a memorable occasion as our Junior Prom? The excitement, the anticipation, the beauty . . . these are the things that we will remember most. You could tell by the radiant glow on everyone's face as they left, that the evening had been a success, and that everyone had had a wonderful time.

No, we will never forget . . . "Carousel."

Is something amusing?

NOVEMBER 16, 17, 1963

Our Junior Play was an experiment in theatre techniques. We used "Cafe Theatre", and served sandwiches, soda, and potato chips to keep our audience happy.

The play was a melodrama of the "gay Nineties". The villain was conquered and the hero triumphed in true melodramatic style. We certainly enjoyed putting it on under the expert direction of Mr. Austin Moore.

Smile, you're on Candid Camera.

If only we had known!

Busy getting ready for the play?

Janet Berenson and Bob Locke are well on their way up the ladder of SUCCESS.

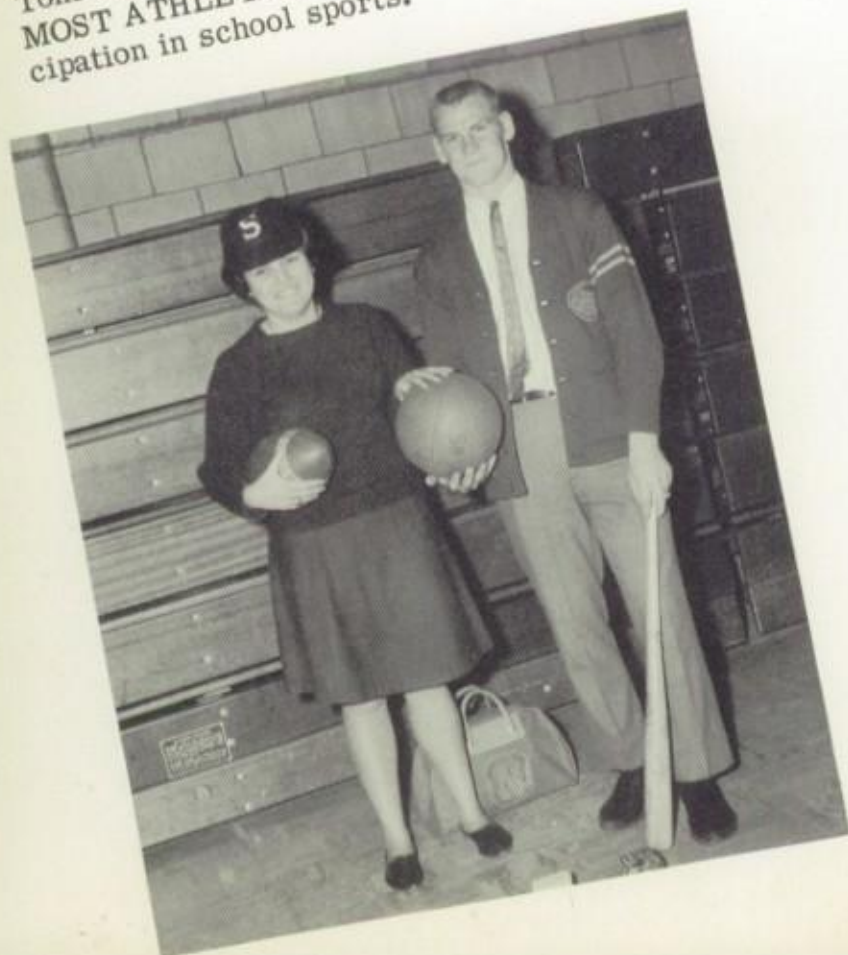

Voted MOST VERSATILE Connie Cini and Dick Cleary added confusion to many activities.

With their CREATIVE ability Joan Moore and George Benson paint play scenery.

Toni Carr and John Cartwright were voted MOST ATHLETIC because of their wide participation in school sports.

S E N I O R

Because they were always ready to be a friend, Linda Morrison and Joe Rowe were voted BEST PERSONALITY.

Donna Curdy and Tom Schellinger kept many tongues wagging with their various FLIRTATIONS.

Fashionable clothes, like these won Joanne Coryell and Jim Natale the title of BEST DRESSED.

Bill Selwood and LaVerne Smith, MOST SCHOOL SPIRITED, are extra enthusiastic about all school activities.

We know Bill Wilson is TALKATIVE but even earmuffs won't help him once Sandy Irving starts.

SUPERLATIVES

Through their crazy antics Grace Taggart and Jim Laslett earned their title of CLASS WITS.

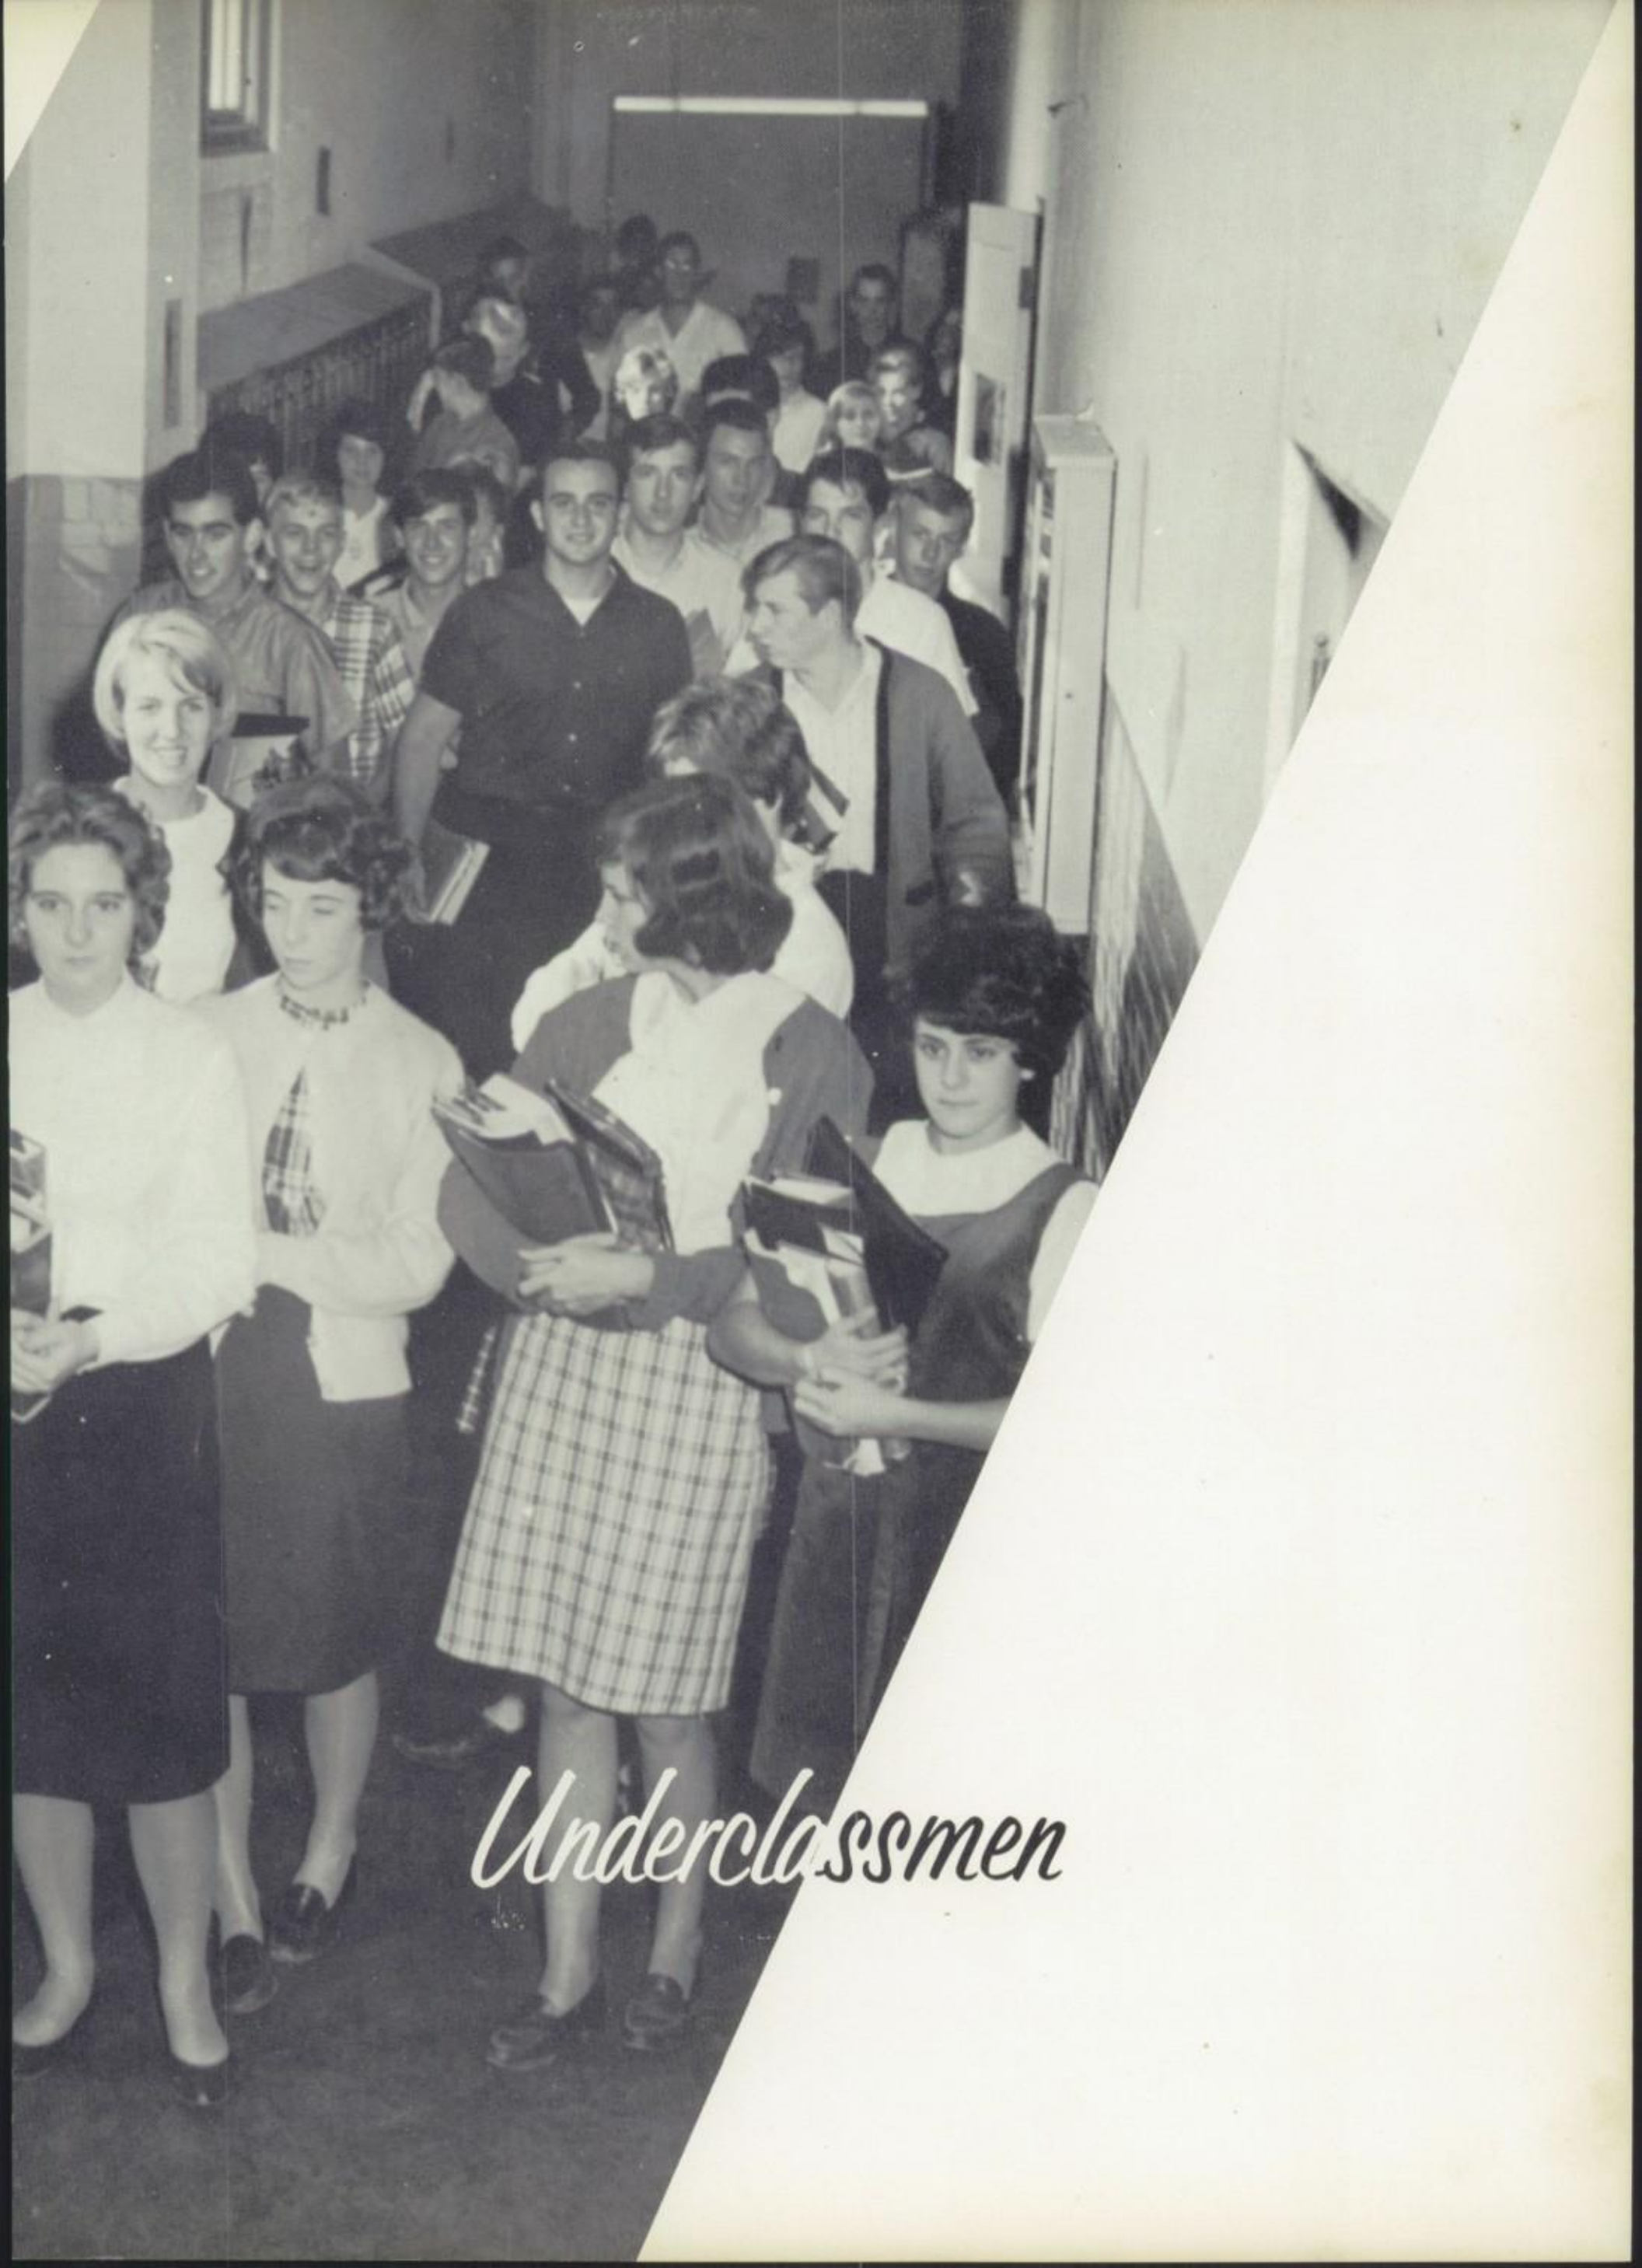

MOST DEPENDABLE, Jean Kissane and Frank Sullivan are occasionally late for school.

Illustrating their BEST DANCERS' ability are Lucille Soloski and Walter Fletcher.

JUNIOR

The Junior Class undertook many new tasks which filled their year with fun and excitement.

To increase their treasury they held two record hops and sold Christmas candy with profitable results.

During September and October, members of the class were seen entering various jewelry shops to order their class rings, which they received just before Christmas.

A night in March held the biggest thrill of the year for the juniors--the Junior Prom. Many laborious, but enjoyable hours were spent in converting the gym into an enchanted wonderland. Many fond memories remain of that fabulous spring night of not so long ago.

Now only one high school goal remains for these juniors--turning their senior year into the happiest and most prosperous year of their lives.

SOPHOMORE

The class of '66 has begun its exciting Sophomore year by gladly welcoming into its class the tenth grade from Folcroft School.

These new students provide a challenge to the whole class--more competition in all phases of school life from academic to athletic activities.

Their money making project this year involves selling all-occasion cards, gift wrappings, and stationery. They also sponsored a record dance in the fall and early spring which successfully enlarged their treasury. The annual Soph Hop is a thrill for all and is their first step to formal dances.

THE OWL STAFF

The annual edition of the school yearbook was the result of a year's planning and work. Many minds and hands entered into the production of this permanent collection of remembrances. We selected our theme early in October to be "Memories", and then worked earnestly throughout the year.

Co-editors Bob Stewart and Frank Sullivan organized their staff to prepare the annual. Photographs had to be taken, copy planned, and art work drawn. As a prerequisite, the Owl had to be advertized and a selling campaign launched. Experienced advice was provided by the sponsor, Mrs. Westerkam. Miss Melli, who assisted the Owl staff during Mrs. Westerkam's absence, will assume the sponsorship of next year's Owl staff.

Although deadlines were often difficult to meet, and feuds sometimes developed between class members, the 1964 Owl finally materialized.

The Senior Chorus, under the expert direction of Mrs. Scott, has provided us with entertainment throughout the year. Eighty-four students from the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades are participating in this year's chorus, making it one of the largest that Sharon Hill has ever had. Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter were the occasions for a performance by this illustrious group.

The Sha-Tones, a special feature of the Chorus, appear at numerous community functions and also sing at school affairs.

STUDENT COUNCIL 1963-1964

The Student Council, which is one of the most important organizations in our school, is headed by President Bill Selwood, Vice-President Wayne Burns, Secretary LaVerne Smith, and Treasurer Bob Brown. This student group is expertly guided by Mr. Edward Sigda.

The Student Council is in charge of various activities, some of these being the Sadie Hawkins Dance, the School Store, Tag Day, Student Day, a talent show, and a teachers' luncheon. This year our Council had a clean-up campaign and a poster contest that included signs and posters for the trash cans located around the halls.

The Student Council is run by the students and it is customary at the end of the year to have Student Council elections with actual campaigning. All officers and class representatives are elected in the spring by the students in grades 7 through 11. Homeroom representatives are elected by their respective homerooms.

The Student Council, with the help of talented Bill Ausura, encouraged the students to keep our school clean.

W. Selwood (President), R. Brown (Treasurer), W. Burns (Vice-president), L. Smith (Secretary).

The Future Teachers of America has become an active organization in our school during the past few years. The club meets on alternate Wednesday evenings rather than after school, as the members are engaged in many other activities. The purpose of the club is to enlighten students regarding the career of teaching. It is designed to help them decide whether teaching is the career they want to follow by showing them various phases of a teacher's life. During the year the club's activities were: a trip to the University of Pennsylvania during Schoolman's Week to hear a lecture; an evening in Philadelphia to see CLEOPATRA; sponsoring a dance and a car-wash in the spring. Membership is open to ninth through twelfth graders and officers are chosen from the upperclassmen.

The weekend of April 2, 3, 4 will truly be a weekend that the classes of 1964 and 1965 will long remember The Junior and Senior Classes combined to put on the musical, L'IL ABNER. It was the first Broadway musical ever acted by a high school group at Sharon Hill.

The expert direction of the musical of this size was extremely necessary for the success of the show. We were very fortunate in having three excellent teachers who gave of their time very willingly. Mr. Johnson concerned himself with the acting and scenery. Mrs. Scott handled all of the music and singing, and she also accompanied the singers on the piano during the show.

Rehearsals Took A Great

Abner

Choreography was a very important element in our musical. Miss Knopf did a very beautiful job whenever any dancing was done.

The students put forth a lot of effort and had a good time in the process. Rehearsals were long and hard, but attendance was usually very good.

The musical was a big success, and anyone who had an opportunity to sit in the audience was very pleased with the efforts of those who were connected with the show. L'IL ABNER was a production of which every member of both classes can be proud.

The 1964 hockey season proved to be one of the best in many years. Our girls seemed to have more co-operation in teamwork than ever, after a week of drills in hockey skills at Camp Tegawitha in the Poconos.

With Captain Conni Cini of the Varsity Squad and Edie Novick, captain of the Junior Varsity, our girls displayed real talent and excellent sportsmanship. As a result of the team's effort, the Varsity achieved 3 wins, 1 tie, and 2 losses. The Junior Varsity achieved 4 wins, 1 tie, and 1 loss, which will bolster their hope for a better season next year.

There was a lot of cheering to be done this year, and our cheerleaders were more than equal to the task.

Always there with the proper cheer at the proper time, they did much to consolidate the fans into a single unit. Never before have our teams had such unanimous backing.

As any player knows, it helps to have the support of the fans, and our school salutes the cheerleaders for being the backbone of that support.

THE KIWANIS CHAMPS

The Sharon Hill High School basketball team posted one of its best seasonal records. The players chalked up 15 wins and only 5 losses under the able leadership of Coach Hamilton.

The team added another first to the school's credit by winning the Class B Championship in the Chester Kiwanis Basketball Tournament. It was our first Kiwanis championship in 42 years of competition.

The boys showed a lot of desire and ability as they beat every team they faced at least once. Of the few games they lost, the margins were small. Conshohocken beat us by two points, and Yeadon squeezed by with a one-point lead.

Coach Hamilton gives last minute tips to the great Owls.

THE JUNIOR VARSITY

All through the season they showed good sportsmanship and even better playmanship.

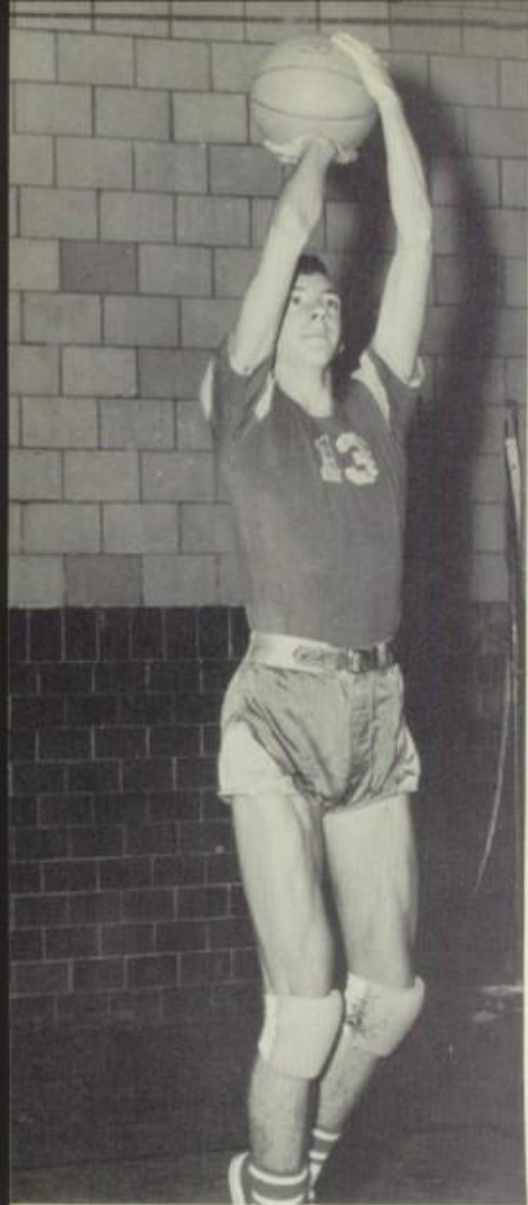

The junior varsity team had a good deal of talent to fill the spots left by the graduating seniors. Coach Stengle molded the boys into a tight-knit team while he added to each man's basketball prowess and experience.

The 1964 basketball team left a reputation which will be tough to match, but we wish the coaches and players the best of luck.

Mr. Kennedy, R. Locke, R. Brower.

Sharon Hill High School ventured into new sports, both under the direction of Mr. Robert Kennedy. The Wrestling team, formed this year as a club, has great potential and expects to go into league competition next year.

Sharon Hill has had good swimmers for many years, but the school has never competed before. Bob Locke won sixth place in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events in the state finals. He also came in second in the 100 yard freestyle at the Meet of Champions in Philadelphia. Bob Brower took a third in the 100 yard breaststroke in the Class B District I Meet.

Our school salutes the efforts of these two boys.

Mr. Savastano, whose determination and baseball knowledge have built a championship team, is able and willing to show us the "correct" way.

BASEBALL AND TRACK

Once again our school will have a very tough baseball team to represent us. With many experienced players returning from last year's championship team, the future appears very bright. Also, several new and exciting players have joined the squad this year. The Owl wishes Coach Savastano and his capable team the best of luck in their quest for their second consecutive Section IV championship.

Our track team also experienced a successful year last year. A strong nucleus of talent is returning this year to power our team. Several new members showing good potential have joined the squad. Although this could be considered a rebuilding year, Coach Young's athletes will be very tough this season.

Mr. Young's vast experience and natural coaching ability have produced many outstanding track stars.
